The author, Joni Johnson-Miller, has always had a love of horses. As a child, she would spend hours reading books and watching movies about horses. She even had a dream of one day owning her own horse.

When Joni was 18 years old, her dream came true. She bought a beautiful Quarter Horse named Cody. Cody was everything Joni had ever wanted in a horse. He was smart, athletic, and gentle.

Joni and Cody spent many happy hours together riding in the woods. They would go on long trail rides, explore new places, and just enjoy each other's company. However, their happiness was short-lived.

When Joni was 25 years old, she was diagnosed with a life-threatening illness. She was given only a few months to live. Joni was devastated by the news. She didn't know how she was going to go on without Cody.

But Cody wasn't ready to give up on Joni. He stayed by her side through her illness, providing her with love and support. Joni knew that she couldn't have made it through her illness without Cody.

After Joni recovered from her illness, she and Cody continued to enjoy their time together in the woods. They would go on long trail rides, explore new places, and just enjoy each other's company. Joni knew that she was truly at home on horse in the woods.

At Home On Horse In The Woods is a story of hope and healing. It is a story about the power of love and the importance of following your dreams.
