A coming-of-age story set against the backdrop of the Iranian Revolution and the author's subsequent immigration to the United States, Memoir of Iran, America is a powerful and moving account of one woman's struggle to find her place in two vastly different worlds.

Growing up in Tehran in the 1970s, the author witnessed firsthand the tumultuous events of the Iranian Revolution. As a young girl, she was forced to wear the hijab, and her family's life was turned upside down by the political upheaval.

In 1984, when the author was just 16 years old, her family fled Iran and immigrated to the United States. She arrived in a new country with a new language, a new culture, and a new way of life.

Memoir of Iran, America chronicles the author's journey as she navigates the challenges of being an Iranian-American in a post-9/11 world. She struggles to find her identity, to reconcile her two cultures, and to find her place in a country that often seems hostile to her.

The author's story is a powerful reminder of the human cost of war and revolution, and of the challenges faced by immigrants who come to America in search of a better life. It is a story of courage, resilience, and hope.

Memoir of Iran, America is a must-read for anyone interested in the Iranian Revolution, the immigrant experience, or the search for identity.
